

KLR Consulting

Inspiring Success in Your Leaders and Teams

COMPANY AND MANAGEMENT RETREATS

Retreats are expensive. Your retreat can either be a costly, ineffective meeting surrounded by leisure and food, or it can be an opportunity to achieve increased effectiveness. A properly planned retreat will motivate the entire team and include built-in accountability to ensure decisions and commitments are put into action.

Success through Expert Facilitation

When you have an experienced facilitator with motivational skills, you significantly enhance the quality of your retreat. Managers who run their own meetings are often the most active participants, dominating the discussion by speaking more than 60% of the time. Inspiring and expert facilitation keeps your retreat focused and productive creating tangible, long-lasting results.

Setting a Clear Agenda and Goals

Retreats should have a clear plan with an agenda designed to concentrate on specific objectives. KLR Consulting can work with you to plan your company's off-site and turn your next retreat into momentous progress. All KLR retreats include:

- A clear sense of purpose
- An agenda built upon specific objectives
- A skilled and inspiring facilitator
- An effective action plan with built-in accountability

Benefits of a KLR Retreat

Companies have their own unique challenges, which a retreat can help address - such as where you've been and where you're going, elimination of unproductive behaviors, business improvement strategies and operational improvements. A company retreat facilitated by KLR Consulting can have long-lasting benefits, including:

- Companywide goal alignment
- Better communication and collaboration
- Improved employee and client retention
- Increased productivity with built-in accountability
- Reduction of unproductive behaviors, attitudes, and assumptions
- Identification and maximization of strengths and focus
- Inspired and motivated teams
- New solutions and fresh perspectives to old problems
- Solid strategic planning process

Let KLR Consulting help make your next retreat an inspiring and motivating success. Contact us today to discuss how KLR can turn your next retreat into an advance.

"We initially turned to KLR to facilitate a retreat for our executives, which resulted in a remarkable increase in the team's collaboration and leadership value. Due to the success of that, we asked them to design an all-hands meeting to launch the company's new direction to our employees. The retreat enabled everyone to embrace our new mission and provided the training to tackle the challenges ahead. KLR helped us implement a new, prolific shift in company direction without any disruption to the business."

- Karen Watts, CEO, Corefino